

The Millennials

Futuristic traveling feels at home in Kyoto

Combining state-of-the-art technology with utilitarian social spaces, a stay at The Millennials Kyoto can be likened to a futuristic experience from a science fiction novel.

The key factor that scales this hostel up to the next level of luxury is the use of over 150 multifunctional smart pod units. The pods are spread over four floors in an area that is considered prime Kyoto real estate. Guests receive an integrated iPod Touch at check-in, which provides them with various controls to operate different functions of their individual smart pod sleeping unit. Functions include an alarm system, optional projectors, and adjustable bed elevation. Hostel guests can adjust ambient lighting, air flow, and mattress incline at the press of a button. Beds can be easily converted into sofas, a mini living space, or a home theater. Certain pods are equipped with projectors, enabling guests to hook up to them via personal smart devices. Each pod unit has substantial secure storage under the bed. The individual showers here are private as well, making this hostel feel respectfully discreet.

The Millennials offers a host of complimentary items to make the hostel stay more comfortable. Cosmetics, ear plugs, and hairbrushes are available at reception; guests can even rent sleepwear if needed. A simple breakfast is complimentary, too, and consists of a variety of baked goods and breads.

When not discovering the technological delights of the sleeping pods, you can enjoy the lobby and co-working space on the eighth floor. This is a spacious environment buzzing with local entrepreneurs who take advantage of the full office amenities provided—including unlimited coffee. Be sure to join in on the cheerful happy hour each evening.
